Why is she crying?

twinkl.com

Because she fell over.

twinkl.com

Why is he happy?

twinkl.com

Because it's his birthday.

twinkl.com

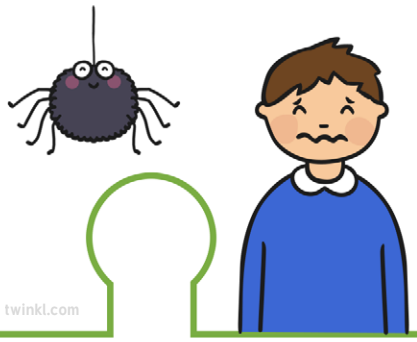
Why is she scared?

twinkl.com

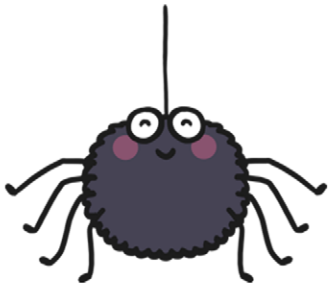
Because of the storm.

twinkl.com

Why is he worried?



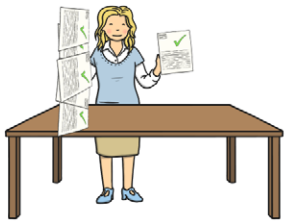
twinkl.com



Because of the spider.

twinkl.com

Why is the teacher happy?



Because all the children did their homework.

Why is the window broken?

Because the boy kicked the ball at the window.

Why is she cold?

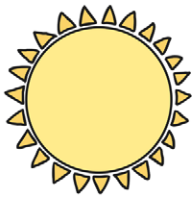
Because she forgot her coat.

Why are the children excited?

Because they are going on a school trip.

Why is he hot?

Because it's a very sunny day.



Why is she proud?

Because the teacher chose her work to show.

Why are they good friends?

Because they like to share.

Why are they singing?

Because they're in assembly.

Why is he in a mess?

Because he is painting.

Why is he changing?

Because it's time for P.E.

Why is he wet?

Because it is raining.

Why is she tired?

Because she has been running.

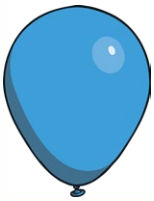
Why is she worried?

Because she has lost her purse.

Why is she laughing?

Because her friend told her a joke.

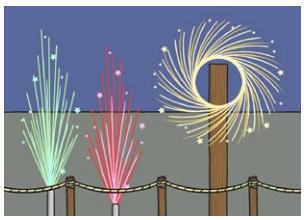
Why is he surprised?



Because the balloon popped.

Why is the dog scared?

Because the fireworks are loud.



Why are they smiling?

Why is she rushing?

Because they are happy.

Because she is late.

Why is she dancing?

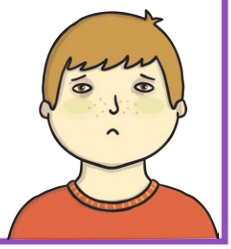
Because her favourite song is on the radio.

Why is he limping?

Because he has hurt his leg.

Why is he sneezing?

Because he has a cold.



Why is she putting her shoes on?

Because it is time to go out.

Why is she wearing a scarf?

Because it is cold.

Why are they holding hands?

Because they are crossing the road.

Why is he wearing pyjamas?

Because it is time for bed.

Why is she quiet?

Because she is reading a book.